MARKET REVIEW, OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

The Debt Management Office (DMO) conducted the October 2025 bond auction with a total offer size of N260bn, split between the reopened 2030 ("5-year") and 2032 ("7-year") bond papers. Investors' demand was strong, with total subscriptions reaching N1.270trn, representing a subscription rate of 4.9x.

Notably, the DMO over-allotted, selling a total of N343.76bn worth of bills. The marginal rate on the 2030 bond paper fell by 0.17%, from 16.00% to settle at 15.83% and the 2032 bond paper fell by 0.35%, from 16.20% to 15.85%.

In the secondary bond market, we observed bullish sentiments amongst investors due to the Monetary Policy Rate (MPR) cut decision by the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC). Thus, the monthly average yields on the 2030, 2032, and 2035 bonds closed lower by 0.58%, 0.36% and 0.56% in October to 15.89%, 15.84% and 15.58% settle at respectively.

Similarly, we observed bullish movements in corporate bonds, as average yields in Sep-2025 fell by 0.44% m/m to close at 18.52% (previously, 18.96% in Aug-2025). Likewise, the FGN Sukuk bonds market closed bullish as average yields on Sukuk bonds reduced by 0.47% m/m to close at 16.23% in Oct-2025 compared to the previous month's close of 16.70%.

Looking into November, the bond market is expected to stay bullish, supported by strong demand and improved economic fundamentals. Robust liquidity in the financial system could sustain investor interest in sovereign bonds. Meanwhile, corporate and Sukuk bonds could face mild pressure as investors shift toward FGN Bond to lock in at current rates in anticipation of further drop-in rates.

PERFORMANCE REVIEW

The United Capital Sukuk Fund annualized YTD return for the month of October 2025 is 10.64% relative to the return of 16.05% posted by the benchmark for the same period.

The return can be attributed mainly to rental income and profit on the fund's bond holdings as well as non-interest bank deposits held during the period. There were also several maturities which were reinvested at higher profit rates and helped shore up the return of the fund.

Looking into November, the bond market is expected to stay bullish, supported by strong demand and improved economic fundamentals. Robust liquidity in the financial system could sustain investor interest in sovereign bonds. Meanwhile, corporate and Sukuk bonds could face mild pressure as investors shift toward FGN Bond to lock in at current rates in anticipation of further drop-in rates.

The Fund maintains sufficient exposure to Sukuk bonds, Non-Interest bank Deposits, Mudarabah, Murabaha and other Shariah-compliant contracts with significantly higher yields. We will maintain current allocation to enhance returns for the Fund.
